

MINISTER TELLS OF WARS HE SAW WHILE ABROAD

Dr. B. J. W. Graham, Back From Trip Through Europe, Describes Exciting Experiences.

Tanned by the sun's rays in eighteen foreign countries, the Rev. B. J. W. Graham, editor of The Christian Index, business manager of the Independent Printing Company, pastor of the Haywood and Ellijay Baptist Churches, arrived home Wednesday morning, exhausted and refreshingly entertaining from a four-month sojourn abroad.

"We visited Portugal, Spain, Africa, Italy, Greece, Asia Minor, Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Turkey, Rumania, Hungary, Austria, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France and England," said Dr. Graham. "Our party included Miss Savannah Clark, Miss Lorena Graham, Rev. E. H. Jennings, Mr. H. Kirkland, Rev. H. N. Bailey, Colonel and Mrs. J. L. Young of Phoenix, Mr. M. P. Estes, of Boston, and Miss Daisy D. Smith, of Missouri, and we enjoyed every minute of our trip."

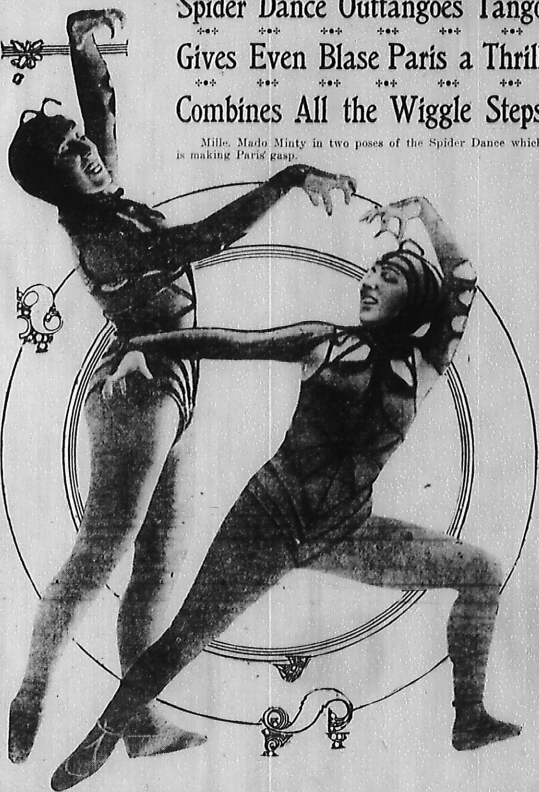

"Which country appealed to you the most?" the Doctor was asked.

"I saw Ships Blown Up."

"Well, I really can't say offhand. Each country excels the other in some particular thing, but one or two others stand out clearly in mind. The Holy Land and Turkey are the most incidentally countries we visited. Rumania, Hungary and Austria are the most and most thrillingly."

"We had a number of exciting experiences," he continued. "Near the scene of the Italian war and near Athens in the Balkans, the Danube and Constantinople. As we passed through the Straits of the Dardanelles we saw with deadly missiles, three large ships were blown up. The two most prominent fortifications we saw were Gibraltar and the Dardanelles. There was a very difference in the strength of these two fortresses in favor of the Dardanelles. During the negotiations for peace the Turkish and Bulgarian armies were encamped near Jajidji, Turkey, within five miles of each other and plainly visible from the ship."

"We traveled on a schedule time throughout our entire trip and did not miss a minute anywhere, except when reaching Atlanta at 5:30 o'clock this morning. Our party here, with the exception of a little sea sickness on our return voyage, was unharmed and in good health that lasted six days and night."

CONGRATULATES SELF OUTSIDE WAS FIZZLE

Painter, After Drinking Four Cups of Rat Poison, Finds Life Still Has Charm.

Life is very attractive, after all, to Benson D. Glymph, of 423 Beaubien Avenue. After surviving four glasses of rat poison, which he drank Monday with suicidal intent, and a broken neck which the physicians a number of years ago were certain spelled his death, Glymph has decided that his life is not as bad as he once believed. "I thought I was going to die last night that I was going to feel well," said Glymph to a Georgian reporter, who called on him Tuesday morning at the Grady Hospital.

"Glymph was all in great pain from his attempt at self-destruction, but he was laughing and happy, nevertheless. He glimpsed the mortal snatching morsels from this life was sufficient. He was content to stay a while longer."

"As far as any wrong-doing is concerned, my conscience is as clear as anyone's," he continued. "I was a bit of a delinquent, that was all. I had been worrying because I had to give up my business, where I was established as a scenic painter and moved to Atlanta. My wife could take care of her folk. So I decided to quit this world and quit it in a hurry."

Glymph was born at Asheville, S. C., 41 years ago, but has spent most of his life in Georgia. He is a painter and decorator by trade, he has had reputations and other decorations all over the South. Fifteen years ago, while doing some painting at Washington, Ga., the sculptor Glymph was standing on a bridge, but he was high to the ground, a foot below. His neck was broken, but after a three-week stay in the hospital Glymph was up and at work again.

MONEY BILL ROW HOTLY DENIED BY WILSON

Bryan Did Not Interfere in Framing Measure, He Declares. Angered by Report.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—There is absolutely no disagreement among any of the men concerned in framing the currency bill. The report that Secretary of State Bryan interfered in the framing of the measure is without a shred of truth.

"This emphatic statement was made by President Wilson today in answer to a query concerning rumors of disagreement among the members of the House Currency Committee. The President said that he did not see how it could have gained circulation."

Desiring to apoke the report of disagreement among his aides, the President left his office today and spoke to a number of newspaper men in Secretary Taft's office. The President seemed much wrought up over the report, and said that he did not see how it could have gained circulation.

The Chief Executive added that currency matters have been entirely completed and that the only item in the program is a delay of a few days to give Republican members of the House Currency Committee time to study the bill and digest its details.

Apoecrypha Called God's Actual Words

LONDON, June 18.—A most important and interesting series of Apocrypha in the Coptic text, probably of the fourth or eleventh century, and other works written in the dialect of upper Egypt, edited and translated by Dr. Wallis Budge, are published by the British Museum.

The whole Apocryphon professes to be in the actual divine words in an unknown language in which our Lord and the Virgin Mary spoke. Dr. Budge asserts that this is the Book of the Resurrection attributed to Bartholomew the Apostle.

BANDITS HOLD UP TRAIN; POSSE, TOO

Creepy, Sensuous Flexions of Arms and Body Accentuated by Web Dress.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The mad wiggle of the tango and the sensuous side of the turkey trot appear as facile as the dances of an old maid's home beside the last dance eccentricity just evolved in Paris, the fountain head of all grotesquerie marvels.

The latest dance is called the "Spider Dance" and as interpreted by Miss Mado Minty, the original "Spider Girl," it is calculated to make the eyes of even the most jaded theatergoer bulge out in wonder. It combines all the beauties—or evils—of the tangoes, the trots, the twists, the hops and other wonders of the dance world, in a series of wriggling, twisting, gliding, shuffling and sensuous movements of the body, accompanied by creepy, flexions of the fingers and slow, wavy motions from side to side of the arms.

While the spider effect is created by the wriggling and the twisting, it is accentuated by the costume, which carries a simulation of a spider's web across the front, with delicate filaments waving upward from the shoulders. Miss Minty, her dancing and the costume, aided by clever lighting effects, have caused even those who have seen the spider dance in a city where the eccentric dance has been cultivated to the fullest extent.

Jerusalem Great City

Jerusalem has a great future. The population of this city in the last ten years has increased 15 per cent, due to the return of the Jews from all parts of the world. The number of Christian and sundry denominations also have increased. The city has a population of nearly 100,000 and the only water supply it possesses is cistern water.

The Old World is interesting, but while we all enjoyed every minute of our lengthy trip, we are glad to get back to Atlanta.

Hammond Asks Two Questions on Wealth

ADA, O., June 18.—John Hays Hammond, many times a millionaire, said to a school address here:

"I should say in contradiction to the usual opinion, that the best way of determining the limit of a man's wealth is to ask him what he would do with it."

"First, 'How did you get it?' and second, 'What are you doing with it?'"

DO IT NOW IS ADVICE OF PONY CONTEST MAN. AS SPECIAL OFFER ENDS

There is a homely maxim which says that Providence helps those who help themselves. This is true in anything, and is particularly true in the pony outfit contest. The Georgian and The American are offering notes and watches worth, in the aggregate, several thousands of dollars, as prizes which are yours at no cost save the effort of buying for subscriptions.

The contest manager has gone several steps farther and made a special offer of extra votes which put a premium on subscription brought in on an entry date. There is an offer of 50,000 votes for the first 100 made for subscriptions, and this offer may be withdrawn at any time. There is an offer of extra votes for clubs of five, either yearly, half yearly, or quarterly. This offer expires soon.

"Do it now," therefore, should be the contestant's slogan. This motto is shown by the standings published to-day, wherein great entries are credited to a number of active contestants. This should prove an example to the laggards—those who are "holding back"—always a dangerous practice, and doubly so in view of the special offers which expire soon.

Count the Cost

When her masters saw that the hope of their gains was gone. Acts XVII:19

Complaints will come. Eleven houses, the so-called segregated district, and more than thirty-three houses scattered over Atlanta have been closed.

In those houses a seven hundred thousand dollar a year business had depended upon the betrayal of sufficient girls to supply the trade.

An annual rental of sixty thousand and more dollars had been paid the landlords. The closed doors marked the end.

To-day, the white slaver can not sell his "meal ticket," a pitiable girl, in Mechanic Street. Its doors and windows are boarded up.

And its former denizens know of no place in Atlanta where under police protection trapped girls can be bought and sold.

Who then is complaining of Atlanta's immorality? The underworld—Laugh not! Continuous, concerted clamor is one of the oldest devices of the croak.

By IT, JERUSALEM'S GRAPTERS crucified Christ: their clatter convinced Roman Pilate that multitudes desired the release of murderer Barabbas and demanded the death of Jesus, our Saviour.

The Light of the World, they tried to quench; but by the Cross they only raised it higher. Ever triumphant, the risen Lord to-day moves on.

Following in His steps, Paul pitied the Philippian slave girl; men said she was "possessed with a spirit"; to-day, you would probably call her a degenerate.

Her cures, men, made money by her weakness. Paul endured men. No longer would her infirmity support abbed-dion men. These, her masters, rebelled. They threw the city into an uproar with their cries. They said—

"These men trouble our city." Their loss of dirty money doubtless did seem to them a civic catastrophe. Honest men knew otherwise. And men have not changed.

ATLANTA'S MORAL DOWNFALL HAS COME IN THE MIND OF THE PIMP, THE FAN-DEBER, THE WHITE SLAVER AND THE LANDLORDS OF FALLEN WOMEN SINCE THERE IS NO LONGER A POLICE PROTECTED PLACE WHERE THEY CAN PREY UPON WEAK WOMEN.

"The hope of their gain" has gone; hence, the clamor. So loud was it in Chicago that her city council appointed nine of its members a committee to consider reopening their recently closed red light district.

To this committee Attorney General Cosson, of Iowa said: "A segregated district—a corrupted police force. "A segregated district is inseparably connected with murder, rapine, lust, and robbery." Father O'Callaghan, protesting against segregation, said: "I do not want to call any city official 'His honor the Chief Pandener of the city.'" Rabbi Ehrlich, adding his voice, said: "Every man before he enters—should think of how he would feel if his own sister or his own son were to be held in such thralldom and slavery as these poor sisters of ours are held."

RECEIVER'S GUARANTEE FIGHT

Trust Company Loses in Superior Court, but Will Carry the Case Higher.

Judge John T. Pendleton, of the Superior Court, ordered a receiver appointed for the Guarantee Bank and Trust Company Wednesday afternoon. Before this action was taken attorneys for both sides had agreed to draw up a supersedeas order carrying the celebrated case to the Supreme Court.

Pending action by the Supreme Court, Judge Pendleton ordered that the case remain in statu quo.

Following the Superior Court decision, attorneys in the case began immediately drawing up papers for a speedy execution of the case before the Supreme Court. It is likely that the Guarantee Trust case will go before it in a short time.

If Judge Pendleton's decision is sustained in the higher court, the case will be returned to him for appointment of a receiver for the trust company, if the Superior Court decision, however, is overruled, the case will be sent back for a new trial.

Physicians were immediately summoned and after considerable hard work she was pronounced out of danger.

PUT YOUR MONEY IN THE GROUND--Real Estate Has Always Been and Always Will Be a Good Investment.

Some of our friends seem to be needlessly alarmed because of a stringency in the money markets in Europe and America. Money stringencies are neither new nor startling. They were old in the days of Joseph. They come and go like a frightened bird.

Wall Street may be in the doldrums, but the rest of the country is moving along in its normal way. Of course, the revision of the tariff is causing some uneasiness, but that, too, will pass away.

We bid our friends CHEER UP! And if we were asked for advice we would say to those who have money to invest:

BUY REAL ESTATE! PUT YOUR MONEY IN THE GROUND! ALL WEALTH COMES OUT OF THE EARTH! MORE GREAT OPPORTUNITIES HAVE BEEN MADE IN REAL ESTATE THIS WORLD OVER THAN IN ANY OTHER WAY.

BUY NOW! BUY IN THE RIGHT PLACE. BUY ON THE LINE OF ADVANCEMENT AND DEVELOPMENT. BUY ONLY AS MUCH AS YOU CAN SAFELY CARRY. THEN IMPROVE YOUR PROPERTY, AND YOU NEED HAVE NO FEAR OF THE FUTURE.

The Hearst newspapers have always urged readers to buy real estate.

If you BUY RIGHT you can not fail to increase the money you invest.

Many people will tell you that this, that or the other time of the year is not the "real estate season."

Good real estate has no season. The ground is always here. The time to buy is when you have the money to carry your purchase—and be sure that you buy only property that is certain to develop and improve as the days go by.

If you do this you need not worry. YOUR FUTURE is assured.

PREACHER, JAILED, SUES FOR $10,000

BUILDING OWNERS TO COME IN 1915

The Rev. A. Campbell Chowning, 1914 Convention Goes to Duluth, Accuses Fertilizer Co. Officials. With Atlanta Selected as the Next Meeting Place.

The Rev. A. Campbell Chowning, 138 Pullman Street, filed a suit for $10,000 damages against the Shook Fertilizer Company, Ben Hewitt, S. E. Broadnax, J. R. Porter and W. J. Eakes, whom he charged with having had him falsely arrested and imprisoned on a charge of larceny after a trial.

Dr. Chowning said that in December, 1912, he went to the office of the fertilizer company in the Fourth National Bank Building to sell religious periodicals. He said that when he reached home after leaving the place he was arrested by Sam Hewitt, an officer of the company, and a policeman named Cowan, who charged him with stealing a leather bag from the office containing about $100.

The minister said that he was taken to the office of Detective Chief Landford, where for more than two hours he was subjected to the third degree. He was taken back to the fertilizer company office in the custody of the police, and from there to the county jail. He said that he was arrested without a warrant, and that none was sworn out until after he had been placed in the jail.

Dr. Chowning's complaint was entirely without foundation, according to the law, and that he had been humiliated and that his health had been injured by the treatment of his friends through the city officials, to justify a claim of $10,000.

RISH RANS FERTILIZER OFFER FRANK

Extensive Preparations Made to Accommodate Great Crowd Expected at Hearing.

When twelve books of evidence more than 100 pages each were turned over to the Solicitor's office Wednesday morning by his stenographic Assistant Secretary General, A. Stephens announced the State could now go to trial on 48 hours' notice. No evidence would be introduced, he said, except by witnesses who had already been questioned by the Solicitor.

To bring out the salient points in the evidence of each witness, the Solicitor plans to question them from the books. They will be carried over the same ground they were when they made the statements, and they will be asked no questions further than those they have already answered.

By his plan the Solicitor hopes to have the mind of each witness fresh and after he finishes the examination, ordering his witness summoned to questions and answers, he thinks the defense will have difficulty in injuring the evidence on cross-examination.

Rush Plans.

Plans are being rushed to stage the trial. On account of the poor ventilation of the court room and the absence of extra-rooms to accommodate the scores of witnesses who will in all probability be sequestered, the building is being sequestered, the building is being sequestered, the building is being sequestered.

Before leaving for New York he instructed his deputy to discuss with the trial judge some new place to hold the trial where the large crowd could be accommodated and the heat would be so excessive. The county board will be called upon to furnish a place, and Mr. Dorsey will approve the so-called "Trial House."

All plans for the trial will be completed before Saturday and the grand jury will be summoned to meet Wednesday before June 30. The Superior Court will be busy with a mass of important criminal cases.

Mystery of Robbery in Hospital Deepens

Police Now Suspect Man of Chloroform Head Nurse in Red Cross Sanitarium.

The theory of a woman Raffles in the mysterious burglary early Wednesday morning at the Red Cross Sanitarium, 88 Cooper Street, was abandoned by the detectives in the room when they were able to get a coherent story of the affair from Miss E. O. Skilton, head nurse, who was choked into insensibility, chloroformed and robbed of nearly $150 and a handsome gold watch.

Other nurses and attaches of the institution told stories corroborating that of Miss Skilton, who was certain that it was a man who throttled her and afterward ransacked her room. One of them, Miss Conroy, obtained a glimpse of the robber. She said it was a man who was wearing a white shirt and dark trousers.

While the burglary is still a mystery, the detective have a man under strong suspicion and are making a search for him now. His only name is an inmate of the sanitarium, and returned to the hospital and the location of his various rooms.

Miss Skilton retired about 11 o'clock. Some time after midnight the burglar entered, creeping stealthily to the post where the nurse was sleeping. Miss Skilton awoke to feel for an instant throbbing hands to restrain her. Then she went into unconsciousness.

The room was ransacked completely. The nurse was pulled out and her contents scattered about the room. The burglar discovered the roll of bills Miss Skilton had concealed. The watch was found as easily. The burglar got away without raising the slightest alarm.

It was not until shortly after 6 o'clock in the morning that Miss Skilton's plight was discovered. Miss Pauline Boken, one of the nurses, came to Miss Skilton's room to awaken her. She saw a handkerchief over the face of the woman, but thought it probably was because of headache. As she came nearer the bed, however, she detected the lingering odor of chloroform and quickly called the other nurses and the physicians.

Nurse Is Recovering.

Miss Skilton was still in bed in a semi-stupor when Detective Wagner arrived at the hospital on a special car. When a Georgia reporter called later in the day she had largely recovered, although she was still in bed. She remembered the circumstances.

Here is her story just as given by her:

"Sometime in the night I awoke and felt the air alive and felt the knowledge that some one was in the room. I thought it was Miss Bogen, the night nurse, who came right across in my room several times for orders concerning the patient."

"Hearing the noise I arose on one elbow and called Miss Bogen. At this instant I was seized by the throat and choked down upon my pillow, a handkerchief or rag saturated with chloroform was placed over my mouth and I remembered no more until 6 o'clock this morning when Miss Bogen came to my room and told me that it was time to get up."

"My room was in great disorder and the contents of a silver wash bag and my gold watch and chain were gone. The purse contained $148."

PUSH PLANS FOR TRIAL OF FRED FRANK

Extensive Preparations Made to Accommodate Great Crowd Expected at Hearing.

When twelve books of evidence of more than 100 pages each were turned over to the Solicitor's office Wednesday morning by his stenographers, Assistant Solicitor General E. A. Stephens announced the State could now go to trial on 48 hours' notice. No evidence would be introduced, he said, except by witnesses who had already been questioned by the Solicitor.

To bring out the salient points in the evidence of each witness, the Solicitor plans to question them from the books. They will be carried over the same ground they were when they made the statements, and they will be asked no questions further than those they have already answered.

By his plan the Solicitor hopes to have the mind of each witness fresh and after he finishes the examination, to ask him questions which will be in accordance with the facts of the case. He thinks the defense will have difficulty in injuring the evidence on cross-examination.

Rush Plans.

Plans are being rushed to close the trial. On account of the poor ventilation of the court room and the absence of anti-rooms, the presence of the scores of witnesses who will in all probability be sequestered, the court in the Throver Building has been adjourned indefinitely by Judge L. S. Roan and Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey.

Before leaving for New York he instructed his deputy to discuss with Judge Roan some new plans for the trial, and where the latest could be accommodated and the best would be to be carried out.

Before leaving for New York he instructed his deputy to discuss with Judge Roan some new plans for the trial, and where the latest could be accommodated and the best would be to be carried out.

All plans for the trial will be completed before Saturday and the great number of witnesses summoned. The week before June 20 the Superior Court officers will be busy with a number of important criminal cases. They will be unable to appear any time to prepare for the Frank trial and the necessary arrangements will have to be made this week.

Judge Thomas May Precede.

Judge W. C. Thomas, of the Superior Court, Valdosta, Lowndes County, was in a lengthy conference Wednesday with Assistant Solicitor E. A. Stephens, giving rise to the rumor that he might be asked to preside at the Frank trial, which will be called June 30.

Judge Thomas has presided at several other trials in Fulton County in which there was considerable local feeling, one of the most notable being the fall bond case, Edger L. S. Roan, who was to have presided at the Frank trial, but it is supposed that the intense local interest in the murder mystery will make him willing to turn the case over to an outside Judge if the Solicitor's office suggests the move.

Police Now Suspect Man of Chloroform Head Nurse in Red Cross Sanitarium.

The theory of a woman Raffles in the mysterious burglary early Wednesday morning at the Red Cross Sanitarium, 88 Cooper Street, was abandoned by the detectives in the afternoon when they were able to get a coherent story of the affair from Miss E. O. Skilton, head nurse, who was chloroformed into insensibility, chloroformed and robbed of nearly $100 and a handsome gold watch.

Other nurses and attendants of the institution told stories corroborating that of Miss Skilton, who was certain that it was a man who thrashed her and afterward ransacked her room. One of them, Miss Conrad, obtained a glimpse of the robber. She says it was a man she saw.

The prints of small bare feet on the porch on which Miss Skilton's room opened led to the first startling theory that it was a woman, not a man, who had committed the unusually daring burglary. The footprints were explained later in the day by the employees of the hospital. They said they probably were made by the grocer boy who delivers groceries every afternoon and leaves them near the window of Miss Skilton.

POLICE HUNT FOR BURGARS ROBBED OF NURSE

Detectives are scouring the city for a woman burglar who they believe committed a daring burglary last night at the Red Cross Bantarium in which Miss E. O. Skilton, head nurse, was choked into insensibility, chloroformed and robbed of $150 and a handsome gold watch.

RUSH PLANS FOR FEDERAL COURT OF FEDERAL FRANK

When twelve books of evidence of more than 100 pages each were turned over to the Solicitor of the State yesterday morning by his stenographers, Assistant Solicitor General E. A. Stephens announced the State could now go to trial on 48 hours' notice.

Extensive Preparations Made to Accommodate Great Crowd Expected at Hearing.

By his plan the Solicitor hopes to have the mind of each witness fresh and after he finishes the examination, according to his well arranged books of questions and answers, he thinks the defense will have difficulty in injuring the evidence on cross-examination.

Rush Plans. Plans are being rushed to stage the trial. On account of the poor ventilation of the court room and the absence of 'refrigerators' to accommodate the scores of witnesses who will in all probability be sequestered, the court in the Throver Building has been judged inadequate by Judge L. S. Roun and Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey.

Mountain Pastor's Daughter Exacts Vengeance With Hickory Branch for Slanders.

Always up in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, in the New Home settlement of Cherokee County, lives a 19-year-old mountain preacher's daughter who is being acclaimed a heroine and a young woman of surprising courage.

Scuttling the memories of the love story, because he felt for him, she applied the lash to her sweetheart—Roy Owensby—until his back was covered with welts and he begged for mercy.

Now, with a ravine wide which she has dedicated to the further gratification of her vengeance, she is seeking her sweetheart's brother, Edward Owensby.

Her home is Belle Orier, and she is the daughter of the Rev. E. E. Orier of the New Home Baptist Church, a little town in the foot of a mountain six miles from Woodstock, Ga. In other surroundings Miss Orier might be a milliner's apprentice, in her native Georgia hills she is content to be just what she is—mountain maid, straight and alert, with eyes blue-brown as a berry, tenderly shy and exceedingly timid.

Lives High on Mountain. Her home is the humble cabin of her father, set high on a mountain spur. Her heart is the heart of a long line of good women who have made the Georgia mountaineer renowned for courage and dogged devotion to belief in the right.

She knows little of the workings of the law and courts. She recked not that the State of Georgia—in time—might give her legal satisfaction for the slanders of the father-in-law.

When she was a child, her father was a stalwart mountaineer and she was a child of the hills. She was a child of the hills, and she was a child of the hills.

And she did it, and in the absence of a horse whip she took a good, stout hickory stick as large around as her man's thumb and five feet long and pounded her sweetheart on the face and arms and back until he was black and blue and frightened almost out of his senses. She ceased the punishment only when she was forcibly restrained by her father, who feared for the life of young Owensby.

Took Stick to Church. In her pursuit of vengeance Miss Orier saw the support of her father and her mother and the approval of the community. It was with the full knowledge and consent of the Rev. Mr. Orier that she took the hickory stick to church with her last Sunday and set upon young Owensby as he lounged in the buggy with a chum, and it is with the same angry and best of her father that she lies in bed for the brother.

It is not true that she only what every woman should do when she is insulted. The Rev. Mr. Orier told her that it was wrong, but she did it, and she did it, and she did it.

It is all come about when Chief Beavers made a personal test of the dictograph, which was on exhibition in the police convention hall.
