Let the Frank Trial Go On

Leo Frank should be placed on trial Monday for the murder of Mary Phagan.

The crime was committed April 26; Frank was arrested April 29; he was indicted May 23 and his trial set for June 30.

At the suggestion of the judge in whose court the trial is to take place, a postponement was agreed on, and the date of the trial moved up to July 28.

Now attempts are being made to secure another postponement. The only reason given to the public is that the weather is hot and it would be disagreeable to hold the trial in the summer.

Of course it is hot, but it isn't any hotter in the court room than it is in jail.

STATE READY AND WILL FIGHT A DELAY

Solicitor Disappointed When Court Fails to Draw Jury Panels at Time Planned

With the belief growing that a serious effort is being made to delay the trial of Leo Frank, set for next Monday, Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey Thursday renewed his protest against further postponement in a vigorous statement, declaring the prosecution is ready with a complete case against the National Pencil Company factory head, accused of killing Mary Phagan.

Let the Frank Trial Go On

Leo Frank should be placed on trial Monday for the murder of Mary Phagan.

The crime was committed April 26; Frank was arrested April 29; he was indicted May 23 and his trial set for June 30.

At the suggestion of the judge in whose court the trial is to take place, a postponement was agreed on, and the date of the trial moved up to July 28.

Now attempts are being made to secure another postponement. The only reason given to the public is that the weather is hot and it would be disagreeable to hold the trial in the summer.

Of course it is hot, but it isn't any hotter in the court room than it is in jail.

Both the prosecution and the defense have had ample time to prepare their cases. If Frank is guilty, the State can prove his guilt as well as later on; if he is innocent, the defense can prove his innocence as well in summer as in winter.

The public has taken a keen interest in the Phagan case and it will demand that the man who killed her be punished, whether that man is Frank or someone else. Furthermore, it is tired of delay.

Public sentiment is where it was on the date first set for Frank's trial and it will be at the same place if the trial is delayed for a year.

Atlantans are awaiting the trial with open minds. They are not holding themselves up as judges. They know the law is supreme and they want it to take its course. But they want that course taken without seemingly endless delays.

EX-GOV. PATTERSON ARRESTED THREE TO BE CHARGED WITH POSTOFFICE SHAKEUP

McKee, Cole and Hart Lose Out

Inefficiency Charged to Heads of Departments - Action Expected Next Week.

By Hugh Miller. WASHINGTON, July 25 - The ousting of Postmaster McKee, Assistant Postmaster Cole and Superintendent of Mails I. C. Hart, of the Atlanta office, will occur early next week, according to information obtained today from the Postoffice Department in such a way that there can be little doubt of its authority.

First Assistant Postmaster General B. Byer, who will be back from Denver early in the week, has announced that he will take up the Atlanta case the first thing on his return and a speedy decision is expected.

The principal charges against the three Atlanta officials, as contained in a report submitted to the Postmaster General by the chief inspector's office, is inefficiency, resulting in a chaotic condition of affairs in the office.

Postmaster Hugh McKee, when charges of inefficiency in the Atlanta postoffice were first brought to light and despatches from Washington would sense, denied emphatically that there was any truth in the accusations.

"If there is any inefficiency in the Atlanta office, I do not know it," said Mr. McKee. "I deny all charges to the effect that I am not competent to judiciously conduct the office. At all times I have every detail under my own control."

Appropriations Bill Passes House After Bitter Verbal Battle. Little Danger of Veto.

The bill was passed in the House Friday, Representative Barry Wright, of Ohio, using the word in rearing lobbying charges intimated by Representative Howard Kniss, of Baldwin. Kniss started toward Wright, but several of the other members of the House intervened and the matter was quickly straightened out. Mr. Kniss declaring that his words carried no insinuation of impropriety, but that he was simply asking for information.

Representative Wright had moved for a reconsideration of sections 4 and 5 of the general appropriations bill, which the House was considering as a committee of the whole. These two sections provide for the appropriation for schools, colleges and State institutions.

Ennis interrupted Wright in a speech and inquired if he was not insinuating that Wright had been in the "third house" to ask for a reconsideration.

Wright's Retort Sharp.

"The only thing I want to say," such a statement was a lie, an absolute falsehood," he demanded that Kniss furnish proof or evidence that he had been in the "third house."

Ennis explained that he had no such evidence, but he had no intention to insinuate that the Representative from Ohio had been so indiscreet, but that he had simply wanted to know what he had done.

Carrying with it an appropriation of $100,000, which had been passed in 1914, the general appropriations bill was passed by the House Friday.

The bill, as amended, showed a difference in but three of the appropriations recommended by the committee. This included $5,500,000 for the public debt fund for each of the years 1913 and 1914, which was an increase of $50,000 over the committee recommendation; $100,000 in one of the Statehouse departments.

Much debate was indulged in on the part of the House. Representative Barry Wright, objecting to many on the grounds that it was following in the footsteps of the 1911 Legislature, "which was the most extravagant in the history of Georgia."

The Confederate pensions section, which covered many items, totaling $1,074,800, was an object of special attack, but no change was made in it.

Mrs. Pankhurst Near Death From Hunger Strike; Under Knife

LONDON, July 25.—The condition of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who was released from Holloway jail yesterday, is reported to-day to be grave.

"The hunger strike" which she inaugurated when in jail has greatly undermined Mrs. Pankhurst's constitution. She refused to eat her food until to-day that she was subjected to a transfusion of blood operation. The operation was performed by the military authorities in order to save the militant leader's life.

It is reported that they will serve their imprisonment rather than pay fines. Mrs. Pankhurst's lawyer, Lady Sybil Smith and Miss Evelyn Sharp, who were arrested yesterday when they tried to hold a press meeting at the entrance to the House of Commons, were taken to jail to-day. The women were fined $100 or the option of spending fourteen days in jail.

His objection is recommended by the House.

Breezes Put Atlanta In Sea Resort Class

A number of Atlantans who had planned to take advantage of special rates to seashore resorts have decided to remain at home, finding Atlanta as cool and pleasant. Thursday night was quite cool, the mercury striking close to 70 all night.

TRAP MATTFORD AFTER HUNT OF 3,000 MILES

BOSTON, July 25.—Chased for more than 3,000 miles, from Atlanta to Boston, John D. Mattford, 39 years of age, was arrested here today, charged with being a fugitive from justice. Mattford is charged by the Atlanta police with kidnaping John A. Barwick, Jr., 5 years old and his sister, Dorothy J., 6 children of John A. Barwick, of Atlanta.

For the past three months the inspectors Dorsey and O'Neal had been searching for Mattford. He has been trailed all over New England, but escaped. For several weeks Mattford and Mrs. Barwick were registered at the Clarendon Hotel under the name of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Martin.

Shortly before 10 o'clock to-day they saw Mattford walking down Columbus avenue alone. Inspector Dorsey approached him, took his name and Mattford turned. He was immediately placed under arrest and taken to police headquarters.

His told Chief McCarty that he did not know where the woman or the children are, but he supposed they had gone back to Atlanta.

Grady Hospital unconscious. He is 67 years of age. He is the son of J. T. Tennant, of Abbeville, S. C., was badly shaken up and bruised, but not seriously injured. He was given a severe jolt. None of the other four cars was derailed.

Inquiry Begun by Road.

Officials of the Seaboard, in an effort to fix the responsibility for the wreck, are investigating the report that the signal board indicated "all clear" until the train was almost upon the switch and that at its instant the operator in the tower pulled the signal and derailed the train.

T. L. Brooks, of No. 46 Currier street, long in the employ of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, is the towerman. He denied the signal had been set against the incoming train just as the interlocking switch was reached, resulting in the derailment. He said that a dead Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic train on Highway to the yards was crossing the Western and Atlantic track on which Seaboard train No. 17 was approaching, and that Tennant must have overlooked the signal set against him.

Two Employees Shift Blame.

Tennant claims that the signal was white. Towerman Brooks declares that it was red. The W. & A. officials will join with the Seaboard in the investigation. Tennant has been with the Seaboard since 1903 and has been regarded as careful and trustworthy. He has had a passenger run for three years.

The train was running at about 35 yards when crossing the Western and Atlantic track. The engine careened along the use about 30 feet and then plowed a deep pathway through the black dirt at the side of the tracks, finally toppling over. A small passenger car was created among the white passenger, but no one was hurt.

Chief White, receiving news for the Atlanta and West Point Railroad, within a few minutes and the work of clearing up the wreckage. This line was expected to be clear by noon.

STATE STILL PREPARES TO FIGHT DELAY

Despite Judge's Statement All is in Readiness, Move for Postponement is Expected.

Despite the fact that Superior Judge L. S. Roan stated everything was in readiness for the trial of Leo M. Frank next Monday, that State's Attorney Hugh M. Dorsey has announced he will fight a delay, and that the defense actually commenced summoning witnesses, the impression still prevailed Friday that a motion for continuance would be made by the defense when the case is opened. Attorneys Luther Rooser and Resner B. Arnold declined fully to say whether they would permit the trial to proceed without introducing some motion for a postponement, and the report was that witnesses had been summoned to be on the safe side in the event a request to put off the trial is refused. The accused man was in the best of health and spirits, according to an announcement from the Tower Friday, and was anxious that the case go to trial. His illness would be the best ground upon which to secure a delay, but the inability of any one of the more material witnesses to come forward would not necessarily be considered a sufficient legal reason. Judge Roan considered it highly improbable that the case would be put off on account of his indisposition. He said that he was in the best of health, and that if any continuance were secured it would be on request of the State's attorney or the counsel for the accused man. "I had a slight attack of indigestion Wednesday night," he said, "but I was all right Thursday morning and opened court at Covington, disposed of three murder trials before noon, and left for Atlanta at 12:30 in the afternoon. Judge to Require Good Reason. "To the best of my knowledge the trial of Leo M. Frank will begin next Monday. The only possibility of postponement would be some very good and sufficient legal reason for a continuance advanced by the State or the defense. During the eleven years I have been on the bench I have never postponed a trial on account of being ill, and I will not consider any personal inconvenience next Monday. "The reason is not drawing the jury earlier was to guard against several of the witnesses leaving the city rather than to serve. "The date set was in the nature of an agreement, and I would imagine the trial of Leo M. Frank will begin next Monday. Despite the assurance of Judge Roan that the case would go on and the announcement of the State's attorney, Hugh M. Dorsey, that all his witnesses had been summoned and he would insist on going to trial, the refusal of the attorneys for Frank to make any statement whatever and the report that the witnesses for the defense had been subpoenaed indicated strongly that a postponement would be sought on some ground that the attorneys were confident would be sufficient. The weather will not play any part in securing a postponement, unless the mercury registers 90 degrees or higher. Judge Roan said that he laughingly remarked last Saturday that if the temperature was as high next Monday as it was then he would be glad to continue the case. He said that he had not considered such a prospect seriously, but if it got as hot as to be extremely uncomfortable he might consider a postponement. Special double extra papers in 2:45 day morning to begin serving the 144

PRANK IN LODGE INITIATION IS FATAL TO 2

BIRMINGHAM, July 25.—In the presence of 115 members of the secret fraternal order of Moose, in Moose Hall last night, Donald A. Kenny, president of the local Chautauque's Union, and Christopher Gustin, an iron molder, met almost instantaneous death from an overabundance of electricity received while being initiated into the organization. Both were young and strong men. Other candidates going through the same initiation before them were not injured. After Kenny was seen to be sinking and before John P. Abbott, presiding officer, could stop the proceedings, Gustin also had been fatally injured. Dead in Five Minutes. Both men died within five minutes, although the lodge physician, Dr. V. Passenger train No. 17 on the Seaboard Air Line, due in Atlanta from Abbeville, S. C., at 8:40 a. m., was wrecked Friday morning when it struck the National Furniture Company plant at 844 Marietta street, plunging into an interlocking switch set against it. Inquiry Begun by Road. Officials of the Seaboard, in an effort to lay the responsibility for the wreck, are investigating the report that the signal board indicated "all clear" until the train was almost upon the switch and that at this instant the operator in the tower pulled the signal and derailed the train. T. L. Brooke, of No. 44 Currier street, long in the employ of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, is the foreman. He denied the signal had been set against the incoming train. Brooks, a Central of Georgia Railroad conductor, has been sentenced by Judge Mathews to stay in jail until he can procure a bondsman whose bail will insure the payment of monthly alimony to his wife. Teachers Still Unpaid.

There is a deficit in the State treasury, and the school teachers still are unpaid. The State institutions have been cut to the very marrow of their bones and can not get along with less money than the general appropriations bill carries. The Governor and the chairman of the Appropriations Committee understand each other on that point. What the Governor insists must be done is to find a way to wipe out the deficit and pay the teachers, and this way must be found through the tax act. Naturally, therefore, the one thing that is disturbing the Governor today is the prospective bitter wrangle in the House over the tax equalization.

JACOBS Doubt Report That Dr. Jacobs Bought Burns' Manuscript

Members of the family of Dr. Joseph Jacobs are not inclined to believe the report that he has purchased the famous Chamberlain manuscript of Robert Burns for a sum exceeding $25,000 bid several years ago by J. Pierpont Morgan.

"I don't think there is any truth to the report," Dr. Stredler Jacobs, son of Dr. Jacobs, said Friday morning. "If the manuscript had been purchased, we undoubtedly would have been notified, and we have heard nothing of it except what we have read in the papers. Dr. Jacobs, so far as I know, has not been near London on his present trip to Europe."

According to the London dispatches, Dr. Jacobs purchased the manuscript from a dealer in London, who recently bought them from the Liverpool Athenaeum. It is said that the deal between Dr. Jacobs and the dealer was pending at the time of the first purchase of the manuscript, and that the London dealer was merely Dr. Jacobs' agent in the transaction.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The discovery of a new counterfeit five-dollar "Indian head" silver certificate is announced by Chief W. J. Flynn of the Secret Service. The Indian portrait is poor, and on the back of the note, green grass in color, little attempt has been made to imitate the latex work.

When the prettiest girl finally is selected for the "600,000 Club" booster button, she will become the champion of that organization, but her name will not be on the buttons. The only words under the pretty face will be the slogan: "Watch Atlanta—She'll Get You Yet."

Miss George Green, of No. 22 North Jackson street, is one of the entrants to-day. She is another brunette and makes the number of brunettes equal to the blondes in the contest. At first it seemed that the blondes would predominate.

Nominations still are invited. Girls nominated now will have practically as good an opportunity from the standpoint of time as those suggested at the first. It is with The Georgian readers who day to day.

She was picked up unconscious and with the other members of the automobile party, hurried to the hospital. Her injuries are not expected to be fatal.

VENTIREMEN SERVED IN PHAGAN CASE

Neglect of Defense to Subpoena Witnesses Taken to Mean Postponement May Be Asked.

That the trial of Leo M. Frank, charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, would begin next Monday morning unless the attorneys for the State or the accused made a good and sufficient legal showing when the case was formally called that would convince the court it would be impossible to proceed, was the statement of Superior Judge L. S. Roper Friday morning.

Luther Rosser said Thursday he would begin subpoenaing witnesses for the defense during the day and the indications are that the trial will go on Monday very greatly strengthened.

JUDGE KNOWS NO CAUSE TO HALT FRANK TRIAL

Roan Expects Case Will Be Called Monday—Deputies Serving on 144 Veniremen.

Continued From Page 11. Judge Roan had been aware of putting the State to the expense of serving the jury until it was reasonably certain the trial would begin and to trial rather than inconvenience the jury and witnesses, many of whom will make arrangements to absent themselves from work to be at the court-room Monday.

Chief Beavers assumed charge of the case, and was assisted by Detectives Barnes and Campbell, who had taken Conley to the Tower the day before without the Chief's permission.

Conley was taken from the station secretly, and the four were in the Chief's automobile and out of sight before the officers' intentions were known.

That the detectives are bending every effort either to discredit or establish definitely the Mincey affidavit was made evident by the number of persons they interviewed.

Conley also was taken to the office of Solicitor Dorsey, where he was quizzed closely by agents who were reported remark when crowds began to gather near the factory that he "would give a million dollars if he were a white man."

Chief Beavers would not divulge the results of the afternoon's work except to say that nothing had developed to change his theory of the crime.

DELIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS

By JAMES B. NEVIN

With daily morning prayer of the House, the Rev. J. H. Hill, is a handsome man, rather abruptly, when it gets negligent or lags in the work to the detriment of the committee before a bill may be passed, and this agreement is made upon a verbal division merely.

The House meets every morning at 9 o'clock now, but there never is a quorum present at roll call. Try as the House will, it hardly can get itself together before 10 o'clock.

Judge Robert Hodges of Macon, in Atlanta today and speculate a time in the House and Senate, reviewing old acquaintances and looking things over.
